

PHAIRIFY PRIVACY POLICY

Effective Date: September 1, 2020
Last Updated: September 1, 2020

STATEMENT

This Accessibility Statement is provided by Phairify, Inc. (“Phairify” “we”, “our” “us”). Phairify takes steps to provide for accessibility and usability of our websites and mobile applications, including related online services that we provide and mobile apps (collectively, our “Services”). While we strive to provide accessibility and usability for users, it may not be possible in all areas of the website with current technology and other restrictions.

Current Accessibility Features

- The full site navigation is located on every page.
- A link to the home page is available on each page through the Phairify logo.
- Links are written to make sense out of context.
- Font size can be increased

Links to Third-Party Content

On our Services, we may link to third-party websites (such as LinkedIn, Twitter, Instagram) and may include or use embedded third-party content to share information or promotional content. We cannot control or correct problems with these third-party websites. You may also want to address your concerns directly to these third parties.

Accessibility Needs

If you have difficulty accessing or using any element of our Services or our Privacy Policy, please contact us using the information below. We will work with you to try to provide the information, service, Privacy Policy, or transaction you seek through a communication method that works for you and is consistent with applicable law.

How to Contact Us

We are continuously improving our website and working to make it more accessible. If you have any suggestions or questions regarding the accessibility of the Services, please contact us:
